PARKING METERS

Like many communities, the City of Houston strategically places parking meters in areas where parking is in high demand. In fact, Parking Management oversees close to 6,000 parking spaces across the city.

By managing curb space, meters allow more drivers to easily find parking and identify spaces designated for public use. Meters also help encourage parking turnover by keeping spaces from being used for extended periods.

On-street and lot meter durations, rates and times vary according to the parking demands at each location. The duration of individual meters ranges from 15 minutes to 10 hours, depending on parking needs. Rates also vary and are predetermined according to parking studies performed before meters are installed.
